

Library as Longitude, Rethinking Portrayal, Rethinking Capacity

Jitendra Ahirwar

B M Ruia Girls' College

Mumbai, Maharashtra

Sarita Verma

Department of Library and Information Science, M L B College Govt. College of Excellence

Gwalior, Madhya Pradesh

Abstract

Libraries have been their present in various types from times immemorial and this article tries to discuss how we can think of changing the Library Spaces in the Current Scenario, through Spaces in Lifelong Learning, as to what Function Libraries can perform in today's context. Then the collection Development in Libraries has been looked upon as to what way it can be rethought. Ergonomic Aspects of Libraries have also been looked into, both User and Staff -wise. One of the major issues in libraries is that of return on investment that also has been discussed. . How reference service can be provided in the present times and how reference management tools can be used for the benefit of the user have been looked upon. Lastly the Open Access Resources Availability and its use have been dealt with.

Keywords: Longitude, Rethinking, Portrayal, Open Access Resources